BIG RAID IN ANDOVER LAST NIGHT

$10,000 Worth of Bond, Whiskey Seized by Local and State Police in House in Flint Court. Fines Aggregating $200 Imposed.

Whiskey to the amount of about $10,000 worth was seized in a raid early this morning by the local and state police officers after an exciting chase from Lawrence following the discovery of a large quantity in a tenement house. The liquor was found here hidden in the cellar of the house of Daniel Harrington in Flint court, but according to information learned from official sources the owner of the property was entirely innocent of the transaction, the guilty parties being Jeremiah Kennelly and Sylvester McGovern, the former a boarder in the house and the latter a neighbor. The raid was made by members of the state police, assisted by Night Officers Frye and Saunders, and the haul was one of the biggest that has been made in this district.

According to the earliest reports the raid had been planned for Lawrence and was to have been pulled off last night but for some reason, known only to those most closely identified with the ownership of the goods, a truck was secured and a hurried transfer to Andover was made. The inspectors seemed to have been wide-awake however, and

MEN, A WORD TO YOU!

HONESTLY, now, attractively gowned women are noticed, aren't they? So are the badly dressed ones!

If the women of your household aren't quite so smart looking as you would have them, maybe it is because you never volunteer the word of encouragement for which they are waiting.

If appearance counts for much in business, and it surely does, it is the very soul of happiness in women.

Men, have a heart!

PLYMOUTH

Thousands of theatregoers who are familiar with Barney Bernard's great character creation, "Abe Potash," will be particularly interested in the announcement that Mr. Bernard is appearing in Boston as a star in a new play, at the Plymouth Theatre. This is Mr. Bernard's first stellar vehicle.The new play is a comedy in three acts entitled "His Honor, Abe Potash," and it is the work of Montague Glass and Jules Eckert Goodman. Mr. Glass is internationally famous as the creator of "Potash and Perlmutter," and as co-author of the three famous plays in that series. Mr. Goodman is the author of "The Man Who Came Back," and co-author of "Business Before Pleasure."
This work of Mr. Glass and Mr. Goodman is not a "Potash and Perlmutter" comedy, nor is it in any sense a sequel to the preceding comedies in which those two famous characters were the protagonists. The stellar role portrayed by Mr. Bernard belongs, however, to the same type of character that Mr. Bernard made familiar in his previous interpretations. The setting is a small town in the State of New York, and the role enacted by Mr. Bernard is that of a Jewish merchant in moderate circumstances who find himself drawn into the maelstrom of local politics. The eccentricities of character, the wit, the wisdom and the quaint philosophy of "Abe" Potash, together with his amusing reactions, demonstrate to the audience what a facile and versatile artist Mr. Bernard is.A. H. Woods, who is presenting Mr.
Bernard, has furnished his star with the same supporting cast as appeared in New York, and it includes Mme. Mathilde Gottlieb, Lucille English, James Spotswood, Robert Cummings, Stanley Jessup, Harold Vosburgh, George Barnum, and Bertram Miller. There is a popular priced matinee Thursday.

TREMONT

There's a new kind of girl coming to Boston. She is "The Girl in the Spotlight." Victor Herbert's latest musical comedy success, which comes to the Tremont, September 27th. Victor Herbert will personally direct the opening performance. "The Girl in the Spotlight" was acclaimed by all the New York critics as the best musical show that has been in New York in many years. The book and lyrics are by Robert Bruce, the numbers were put on by Julian Alfred and the production made personally by George W. Lederer.
In selecting the cast for the play Mr.
Lederer has grouped a company that has seldom been equalled in a musical play. Among them may be mentioned Hal Skelly, late of "The Night Boat" and undoubtedly one of the best light comedians and eccentric dancers in this country; Eddie Dowling, late of Ziegfeld Follies, Nat Carr the well-known character comedian, and other big musical hits; Mary Milburn, a new prima donna to Boston, who scored the biggest triumph of any singer in years during the New York run of the play; Juliette Lange, one of the most beautiful women on the stage, a splendid actress and a charming vocalist; Ben Forbes, a pro-fite of Mr. Herbert's who was lured from the concert stage and whose first appearance in musical comedy has been in this play. Mr. Forbes already ranks foremost among the tenors in musical work. Others in the cast are John Hendriks, the well-known basso; John Reinhard, Neil Moore, Minerva Grey, remembered here in her eccentric character in "Angel Face"; Jesse Lewis,
A. nes Patterson, Ruby Lewis, Lillian Young, Lucille Kent, Geneva A. Mitchell, Evelyn Greig, Gertrude Reynolds, Helen Gates, William Cameron, and a brigade of personally selected sub-principals of the Lederer imitable type. "The Girl in the Spotlight" is one of the most gorgeously costumed and most brilliant productions ever brought to Boston and will be presented with the entire New York cast and production. A number of Mr. Herbert's specially selected symphony musicians are carried by the company. The piece fairly glistens with musical gems and it's safe to predict that "The Girl in the Spotlight" won't be here but a few days before "I Can't Sleep Dear, Without Dreaming of You" and many others will be heard being whistled and sung.

The following transfers were recorded

Mollie R. Loomer to Arthur F. Ryder.

INTERESTING MEETING

Andover was represented by Miss Charlotte Helen Abbott, Miss E. F. Swift,
Miss Marion Dearborn, Mrs. Anna
Paddock, Miss Belle J. Butterfield, Mr.
and Mrs. O. P. Chase, Mrs. T. F. Pardise, F. D. Stickney, and others.In his talk Professor Barton first alluded to the rapid and constant changes that have taken place every hour since creation in the composition, outlines, topography and structure of the earth.
The popular idea regards the earth's crust as fairly well fixed—the geologist sees it almost in a state of fluidity; fissures, glaciers, valleys scoured, elevations gradually formed; a fight almost continual of forces—water, in-flowing ocean, besides the ever-shaping solar, igneous and vaporous powers.
The igneous (fire and volcano) generally overbalanced all others, and really brought land above the sea. Then the great polar ice-cap slid down its enormous weight and force scouring irregularities, yet leaving in its path at summer meltings great masses of parallel pathways of two disconnected sheets often leaving great irregular ridges, known as eskers. Kames, or oars; the standard form now adopted in all countries, being "esker"—correct name for the Indian Hedge, which the Indians had no connection with but to wonder at, as the white men do today. Glacial force laid down beyond all others; the movement was from Greenland to about Mason and Dixon's line, save that Alaska was untouched, or practically so. This great ice-sheet movement, from north

JAMES A. GARFIELD

1831—Nov. 19, James Abram
Garfield, born at Orange,
Ohio.
1858-61—President of Hiram College.
1858—Married Lucretia Rudolph.
1860—Member of Ohio Senate.
1861—Colonel in Ohio Volunteers.
1862—Brigadier General.
1863—Major General.
1863-80—In Congress.
1880—Elected to the United States Senate.
1880—June 7, nominated for President by Republican Convention at Chicago.
November, elected President.JAMES ABRAM GARFIELD was the latest and, it is fairly safe to say, the last of the presidents born and bred in log cabins. Notwithstanding that humble state, he was one of the half-dozen scholarly men who have sat in the presidential chair.Garfield is the only president who was present at his own nomination.
The presidential lightning struck him as he sat in his seat in that most extraordinary and exciting national convention which met at Chicago in 1880.
All the "Stalwart" clans, believing with a St. Louis editor that there was "one more president in the bloody shirt," seized upon the great name of Grant, and under the banner of the "Hero of Appomattox" they rallied against the "Half Breeds" who followed "the Plumed Knight," James G. Blaine of Maine.The rival champions in that remarkable tournament at Chicago were Roscoe Conkling, chieftain of the "Stalwarts," and James A. Garfield of Ohio, the spokesman of the "Half Breeds."

James A. Garfield.

although he was restrained from directly supporting Blaine by the instructions of his state in favor of the nomination of John Sherman. Conkling, a handsome fop, carefully studied the right moment to make his theatrical entry upon the stage the first day, drawing the applause as he advanced down the aisle with his "grandiloquent swell, his majestic supercilious, overpowering, turkey gobbler strut," which Blaine had held up to the laughter of congress years before in a never-to-be-forgotten speech. The next day Garfield took his revenge by entering while Conkling was speaking, and the welcoming cheers drowned the voice of the indignant speaker. On the third day the two came to grips in a debate and the Ohioan scored on the New Yorker.While the gallery still was cheering the victor in that round, Conkling wrote on the margin of a newspaper and sent to Garfield a mocking suggestion that he was playing to the gallery in his own interest: "I congratulate you on being a dark horse!"
In truth Garfield could not rise in the convention without helping himself more than he helped Sherman, who never had a chance to win. As ballot after ballot was taken, it became plain that neither the "immortal 300" who followed Grant nor the deafening cheers which his name evoked could overcome the prejudice against a third term in the White House, and it was made equally plain that this "Old Guard" never would surrender to Blaine.A new candidate was necessary if the convention was not to fall to pieces in factions. One solitary vote for Garfield on most of the ballots had continued to point the finger of destiny at him. Wisconsin pointed all her fingers in his direction when her delegation broke to him on the thirty-fourth ballot.Garfield rose with pallid face and dry lips to a point of order. But Senator Honor of Massachusetts, who was in the chair, rapped him down. In two more ballots he was nominated by a combination of the Blaine and Sherman men.In the midst of the uproar the nominee sat limp and perspiring in his seat.
"Get me out of here," he faintly whispered to his seatmate, Ex-Governor
Foster of Ohio.Five Minute Chats

ASSASSINATION OF GARFIELD

1881—March 4, James A. Garfield, inaugurated 20th
president, aged fifty.
Mar. 23, sent to senate
the nomination of federal officers in New York City.
May 16, the senate confirmed the nominations.
May 17, Senators Conkling and Platt resigned.
July 2, Garfield shot by Charles J. Guiteau at Washington.
Sept. 6. Removed to Elberon N. J., Sept. 19, died, aged fifty.
1882—June 30, Guiteau hanged.JAMES A. GARFIELD fell a sacrifice to the spirit of faction and of the spoils system. Although this gentle, kindly man was not of the heroic stuff that martyrs are made of, his blood became the seed of better things in our politics.Rarely if ever has a president taken up the burden of the office with a larger measure of good will from the people, regardless of party and of faction, than flowed out to Garfield as he stood on the steps of the capitol in the sunshine of his inaugural day, the picture of robust American manhood in its prime. His first kiss, after kissing the Bible in the presence of a multitude of witnesses, was for the aged mother, who, in a forest hut, had started him on his way to the White House and who held a place of honor beside the schoolmate sweetheart who had been his faithful companion all along the road."One thing though lacked yet," and that is a slight ossification of the heart," John Hay had written to the president-elect. This lack was fatal.
Had his heart been harder, Garfield

Lucretia R. Garfield.

would have made his administration wholly his own, lifting it above factions, and he might have lived through a prosperous term. Instead, he remained his few months in the White House what he had been in congress, a lieutenant of Blaine, whom he appointed to the secretaryship of state—
"with the love of a comradeship of eighteen years"—and who became at once the power behind the throne.The only president to step directly from the capitol to the White House, he was without executive experience or tastes. His whole training had been to debate and compromise, not to act or decide on his sole responsibility.Garfield himself was rather indifferent to factions, liking to get along with all men. He appreciated Conkling's reluctant but timely support in the campaign and invited him out to Mentor in the winter to talk over the New York patronage. He thought of inviting him into the cabinet itself, until Blaine whispered no.Less than three weeks after he took his seat, Garfield told the senator that he was not yet ready to consider the question of filling the New York offices. Only 48 hours afterward, he filled them, nominating for the highest of those offices Blaine's best friend and Conkling's worst enemy in New York.With Garfield's hand, Blaine had thrown down the gauntlet to the haughty chieftain of the "Stalwart" clan and a duel of factions was on in blind fury. The administration succeeded in beating Conkling in the senate, where he opposed the confirmation of the offensive nominee. But the senator and his colleague, Thomas C.
Platt, resigned their seats and appealed to the New York legislature to re-elect them as a vindication of their course.When the conflict was bitterest and when the "Stalwarts" were losing at Albany, a disappointed place hunter at Washington, Charles J. Guiteau, conceived the mad idea of saving the situation with a pistol shot, and he posted himself at the railway station, where his victim was to take a train for Massachusetts. The president was going back to Williams college, the goal of his struggling youth, and was smiling like a boy off for a vacation as he entered the waiting room at the railway station with Blaine at his side.
In two flashes of a revolver he fell.

Telephone Number Changes

Every new issue of the Andover telephone directory contains on the average 42 changes in telephone numbers.

Between directory issues many telephone users do not make a record of the changed numbers they frequently call.

This necessitates the frequent calling of the information operator and unnecessary work on the part of both subscribers and operators.

It will assist in maintaining good telephone service if a record of such number changes is kept near your telephone; and if telephone numbers, particularly party-line numbers, are eliminated from letter heads, business cards and advertising of all kinds.

Messing It Up

We have noted considerable newspaper comment in connection with Mr. Washburn's independent candidacy for Lieutenant-Governor. Much of it has no bearing upon what may possibly be a serious result, namely the effect of Mr. Washburn's free-lance movements upon the entire Republican ticket.

We commented last week on Mr. Washburn's peculiarities and the manner in which he should be treated by the Boston press. Probably no such procedure will be followed, but without question Mr. Washburn would last a very short time if he were allowed to dwell in the sort of peace and quietude which he so much abhors. Lime light is his chief food, and a public agitation by his tongue lash is always meat for his hopper. For these reasons Mr. Washburn will get good audiences and provide a certain amount of entertainment, but Mr. Washburn is rather more than an entertainer—he carries underneath considerable purpose in things he does, and those who realize his strong antipathy to the Republican candidate for Governor would better watch out lest he really succeeds in doing what so many people fear, namely, make trouble for the Republican party as a whole.

He has protested loudly his love for Governor Coolidge, but he has protested with equal eloquence privately other opinions not as flattering. He undoubtedly will proclaim his friendship for Channing Cox, but it is well known that privately he has never been friendly to the ambitions of the Lieutenant-Governor or to the desires of that gentleman for promotion.

If Mr. Washburn had spent more hours of his life on serious matters, the Republican party might well query how much leeway it could give him in his present free-lance movement, but don't let anybody in the Republican party overlook the likely fact that he is out not only to make trouble for Mr. Fuller, but also in his own subtle way to spread as many germs of discontent as he can for other candidates on the Republican ticket.

And by the way, again comes to mind the old story of James G. Blaine when he was a candidate for Governor of Maine, as perhaps being the explanation of Mr. Washburn's attitude towards those who have been supposed to be very helpful to him in many ways during the past few years. The story runs that Mr. Blaine was told that Jones of Androscoggin County was out to defeat him in one of his campaigns for governorship of Maine. Mr. Blaine paused thoughtfully for a moment, and then looking his informant in the face said, "It can't be possible that Jones of Androscoggin County is against me. I never did any favors for Jones."

Good Work

The highway work on the hill is a joy and a comfort. As was stated some time ago, the contractor is one of the best in the State, and he certainly has an organization capable of showing results. Not only that, but it is very evident that a thorough job has been planned for, and when completed is likely to take care of the highway traffic on the hill for a long time.

This past week the job has been still further improved by a contribution from the Trustees of Phillips Academy to pay for curbing on the east side of the road near the street railway tracks. Hence when the job is completed we are not only to have an efficient, modern, heavily constructed highway, but we are going to have a very beautiful street.

It would be most unfortunate if some of the large amount of material being excavated is not made use of in improving the open area in the hollow between the Academy property and the present State highway. Some time ago the County Commissioners laid out the extension of Highland road as a county road, and the lines are all established. Now is the time to make use of this material in effective, genuine improvement, and the Board of Public Works and Selectmen should let nothing stand in the way of having this work done. Filling may be secured without cost, that under other conditions would be very expensive.

Editorial Cinders

When you get your tax bill you are likely to know why the assessors were able to do the kind of a job which the Townsman very promptly and very properly said was a good one, several weeks ago. The question is going to arise, however, how long Andover property will stand for such raises as some of it has been given. The Editor does not object to an increase in the valuation of the business block in which the Townsman is housed, to a price much in excess of other business property, but comment may not be out of place later when the book of assessed valuations is published, and while we hope that few examples of such inequality as all of us know something of, may be found, we fear that the assessors will have considerable difficulty in explaining some of their failures to increase, and some of their other striking results in making excessive increases. The problem in Andover is to equalize taxes, not to find revenue just because the finding is good.

French Classes to Begin

State University Extension classes in Conversational French will be organized again this year under the auspices of the Department of French of the November Club.

It will be necessary for those who register, to pay the enrollment fee of $1.00 whether they are beginning this year, or took a course last year.

The courses are offered to any one above school age whether or not a member of the November Club.

The time or day of meeting has not yet been decided upon.

Those wishing to join a class in either first, or second-year Conversational French please send their names to Miss Mabel M. Carter, 31 Bartlett street, before October first.

When sending names kindly state which class is preferred.

New Teacher at Punchard

The new member of the Punchard faculty, Clifford Hubbard, entered upon his duties as teacher of History and Civics on Wednesday of this week.

Mr. Hubbard is a graduate of Brown University and received the degree of A.M. at Harvard. He has taught in Laconia, N. H., and at the Malone Normal school in Indiana. During the past year he was connected with a business house in Providence, R. I. He is married and is looking for a house, hoping to move with his family to Andover.

Free Church Notes

All men who are connected with the Free Church are invited to meet the pastor after the morning service, Sunday, September 25th. The purpose of this meeting is to help Mr. Wheelock to get acquainted with the men of the church and to talk over certain important matters relative to the work of the church. Mr. Wheelock will lead the discussion with a short talk on "The Present Business of the Church." The question of future meetings and the possibility of forming a discussion class will be taken up at this meeting.

Considerable interest is being shown in the tri-weekly meetings on Wednesday evening of each week at which the pastor is giving a series of talks on "The Bible, a Book for Today." Topics yet to be discussed are: The Bible as History; The Bible as Literature; The Bible as a Book of Reform; The Bible as God's Word; and The Four Pictures of Jesus in the Bible.

Busy Week for Andover Natural History Society

Twenty-two members of the Andover Natural History Society met in the lecture room of the Punchard school on Tuesday evening to exchange vacation experiences and nearly every one present had something of interest to relate.

Mr. Hamblin gave an interesting account of an automobile camping trip "de luxe" made in company with Mrs. Hamblin and Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. Bodwell which included a stop at South Chatham, N. H., with some mountain climbing, a fishing party at Connecticut lakes and a return trip by way of Vermont through a most beautiful country.

Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Sanborn who spent the summer at their camp in Groton, N. H., told of botanical adventures and a visit to a pond which is disappearing with such rapidity that a rock, from which one might have fished within the memory of those now living, is now one hundred feet from shore.

Plans were completed for the entertainment of the Federated Societies of Natural History which will be their special guests tomorrow.

This evening the visitors will be entertained by members of the Lawrence Society at their rooms in the Central building. An address will be made by President Smith on the subject of bees and Miss Mank of the Lawrence society will also speak.

Saturday morning there will be an excursion for mushrooms in which several members of the Boston Mycological club expect to join, leaving Boston at 8.10 a.m., due in Andover at 9.06 Massachusetts time. A lunch for visiting members will be served at the High school from 12.00 to 1.00. At 2.00 o'clock there will be a meeting of the Federation for reports and addresses.

In the Punchard school on Saturday there will be an exhibition of local plants from the herbarium of M. E. Gullerson and Rocky Mountain plants collected by the late William G. Goldsmith.

The collection of stuffed birds belonging to the Andover society will also be shown.

Illustrated Lecture on Maine

The members of St. Matthews lodge were pleasantly entertained in Masonic hall Wednesday night when a lecture was given by Eugene S. Jones. Mr. Jones is official photographer for the Boston and Maine, and his subject was "Maine, the Sportsman's Paradise."

His lecture was profusely illustrated with hundreds of pictures of the scenery of Maine's lakes, mountains and seashore, and was very instructive as well as furnishing an evening of rare enjoyment.

Surprise Party and Shower

On Wednesday evening, September 22nd, Miss Anna Holt of Chestnut street was tendered a surprise party and shower in honor of her approaching marriage to Blanchard Ralph of Chapman court. This was given by members of the G. A. L. Club at the home of her cousin, Miss Emma Holt of Shawheen Village. The guests assembled early in the evening and when Miss Holt came in for a few moments' call, she was genuinely surprised.

The gifts, which were beautiful as well as many, were hidden about the house, and everyone was given a stunt to do, Miss Holt's being to find all the gifts, each one having on the outside a card, directing her to the next.

Those present were Mrs. Holt, Mrs. Clarence Weeks of West Somerville, Mrs. Roy Dearborn of North Andover, Mrs. Leslie Carmichael, Mrs. Roy Hardy, Mrs. Philip Hardy, Misses Florence West, Anna Holt, Edith Kendall, Emma Holt, Mabel Bailey, Mildred Cole, Elizabeth Abbott, Charlotte Holt and Marion Abbott.

The next regular meeting of the club will be held at the home of Mrs. Herbert Carter, West Parish on Monday evening, October 11th.

Will Attend Anniversary

At the meeting of Clan Johnston 185, O. S. C., held last Friday night in Garfield hall, an invitation was accepted to attend the first anniversary celebration of the Ladies' Auxiliary's becoming affiliated with the Grand Clan. The observance will be held in Garfield hall Thursday evening, October 21st and great preparations are being made by the auxiliary.

A delegation was present from Clan Douglas of Haverhill and members of the local Clan are planning to attend the annual fair of the down-river Clan which will be held next month. Robert Williams of Clan Johnston was selected to be one of the judges at the Highland Schottische contest at the fair.

A report of progress was made by the committee on the Burns concert which will be held in the Town hall early in January.

Punchard Candidates Out

Coach Lovely called out the candidates for the Punchard football team on Monday and the first practice was held on the playstead in the afternoon.

There was a large response and for the first time he will have enough candidates for two elevens and a few to spare. The prospects are fairly bright. The team lost by graduation its complete backfield and the places of Payne, Partridge, Dalton and Clinton will be hard to fill.

The line, however, is intact and Coach Lovely while brushing up the forwards, will be able to devote considerable of his time to developing a new backfield.

Monday he put the candidates through a stiff drill ending with a short scrimmage. The first game is with Newburyport High and will be played on the local playstead on Saturday.

SPECIAL PRICES on CORD TIRES

For two weeks, we will take orders for OLDFIELD CORD TIRES at the prices in effect prior to March 12th, 1920. This is a grand opportunity, don't miss it. CARUSO sings "L'Addio a Napoli" (Farewell to Naples)

"Voce di donna" (Angelic Voice), the grateful song of the blind mother in Gioconda, is considered by many music-lovers the finest single number in the opera.

It would be difficult to choose a number better adapted to the quality of Besanzoni's lower tones, and you realize here is one of the truly great voices of this generation.

One Pipe—The Modern way to Heat

THE MAGEE ONE-PIPE FURNACE is the new principle in heating to which the householder may confidently look for the realization of what he has always hoped for in his heater—"hoped for" but never "realized."

To-day this realization is made possible by the unique features presented in the Magee system. Through its single warm-air pipe, the Magee sends all of the warm air which is generated, upstairs into the house where it is needed. Coal bills do not look so large when you realize that all of the coal heat which you pay for is utilized; no part of it is wasted. Think it over and

Christ Church Notes

The Girls' Friendly Society will meet on Monday night at 7.45 in the Parish House. This gathering will be an important business meeting and it is urged that all connected with the Society be present.

The committee in charge of improvements and changes in the parish property expect to give some interesting details shortly. Nature has already begun the work that the plans suggested. A large tree which stands on the spot where the proposed addition to the parish house would be and which would have to be cut away, was split by the summer storms. It has been partly taken down because of the danger of its falling on the buildings.

Join the National Guard

In connection with the present reorganization of the Massachusetts National Guard, interest centers locally on the 102nd Field Artillery, the regiment with which a large quota of Andover boys served in France during the World War. This regiment is now being reorganized in this vicinity and stands a very fair chance of being the first regiment in the state to receive federal recognition.

The Headquarters Company of the regiment is being organized in Lawrence and is under the command of Captain William B. Higgins of this town. Captain Higgins is extremely anxious to enlist some Andover men in this company.

The Headquarters Company of a Field Artillery Regiment offers some of the most interesting positions in this very attractive branch of the service. The company will have a certain number of horses assigned to it as soon as it is equipped, thus affording the men a chance to learn to ride and to use a horse without charge. There are various positions open as wireless men, telephone men, and other special work in which instruction will be given.

The National Guard offers an opportunity to the young men of the country to receive military training without giving up the time which an enlistment in the regular army requires. The drills will not be more often than once a week and in the summer months there will be a camp of instruction of about two weeks. A man going into the National Guard is doing a real service to the nation, as a completely filled National Guard means an organized force that can be mobilized quickly and which is the next line of defense to the regular army. Under the new army reorganization bill recently passed by Congress, men enlisting in the National Guard are paid for attending drills and for the camp of instruction in the summer. There is a chance for the ex-service men who are still willing to give some of their time and some of the knowledge they received during the war, to join up with an organization which has already a brilliant record in actual combat. Here is the chance for the young men who were too young to participate in the World War to join an organization officered for the most part by veterans who know their business from actual experience.

Captain Higgins or his representative will be at the American Legion Rooms in the Carter Block every Thursday evening, and will be glad to explain further, to any men interested, the advantages of a Headquarters Company. It is hoped that there will be a generous response among the young men of the town.

Republican Rally Tonight

The biggest political rally in years is planned for this evening in the Town hall under the auspices of the local branch Republican League and the Republican town committee. All citizens of the town, of whatever party affiliation are cordially invited.

Alfred E. Stearns, principal of Phillips Academy will preside and the speakers are to be Samuel Spring, Miss Frances Nevin and James Jackson, state treasurer.

Mr. Spring is a graduate of Phillips Andover 1906, and a special assistant to the Attorney General of Massachusetts. He is also a member of the special committee to investigate the sale of corporation securities. Miss Nevin is a speaker of recognized ability among the women.

A special feature of the rally will be the community singing under the leadership of Albert E. Brown of Lowell who made such a tremendous hit at the league banquet held last spring.

The doors will open at seven o'clock and the rally will begin promptly at seven-thirty.

Obituaries

ADELINE R. FRASER

Adeline Ross Fraser, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James J. Fraser, died of pneumonia early Thursday morning at the home of her grandmother, Mrs. Ross, 12 Essex street. The little girl, in company with her parents and four brothers arrived in this country last Saturday, coming here from Scotland.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from the late home. Rev. F. A. Wilson will conduct the services. Burial will be in Spring Grove cemetery.

HELEN ALVENA LYON

On Saturday, September 18th, Helen Alvena Lyon, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Lyon, passed away at her home on Main street after a prolonged illness.

She was born in Lawrence on January 26, 1907 but her home has been in Andover for several years. She was a pupil at the Briggs-Allen school.

Her parents and two brothers, Sumner and George C. Lyon, survive her.

The funeral services which were held at the family home on Monday afternoon were conducted by Rev. Arthur Barber, pastor of Trinity church, Lawrence.

The bearers were Daniel O. Swan, Frederick Marble, Paul Chandler and Clifford Haynes, all of Lowell, H. A. S. Reid of Andover and Fred Weiss of Lawrence. Burial was in the family lot in Bellevue cemetery.

THOMAS J. HORAN

Thomas J. Horan, a life-long resident of Ballardvale, died Wednesday evening at his home on Oak street, in that town, after a long illness.

Mr. Horan was born in Ballardvale fifty-one years ago and previous to his illness had been employed in the shipping department of the Ballardvale Mills. He leaves his wife, Mary (Campbell) Horan; a daughter, Miss Alice E. Horan and one sister, Miss Catherine T. Horan.

The funeral will be held Saturday morning at St. Joseph's church. Burial will be in St. Augustine's cemetery.

A Tribute

Saturday, September 18th, at two o'clock a life of rare beauty entered the peaceful sleep when Alvena Lyon, the fourteen-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Lyon, Main street, left this earth.

The family moved from Lawrence to Andover five years ago hoping that their little daughter's health might be made whole by the change. She has always been surrounded by only the best and finest things of life, for her parents left nothing undone in any possible way for her. While the years spent here were brief she had lived a perfect and complete life, full of happiness and sunshine. Her earthly life has been one of exquisite loveliness and she has seemed more like a spirit than a child. She always thought of others, eager to bring joy to every one whom she met, generous always, slow to anger, ever ready to speak a kind and thoughtful word, and seeing only good in every one.

Her love and interest in the Briggs-Allen School was shown up to the last when she watched her young brother start for school. Her wonderful radiating influence for good will never be forgotten by those who knew her any more than the message she gave the last day of school, June 21st, when she seemed almost a sweet spirit, as she said:

When to the flowers so beautiful,
The Father gave a name,
Back came a little blue-eyed one,
All timidly it came,
And standing at the Father's feet
And gazing in His face,
It said with meek and timid voice
And yet with gentle grace,
'Dear Lord, the name Thou gavest me,
Alas, I have forgot—'
The Father kindly smiled on him
And said, 'Forget-me-not.'

Weddings

CHRISTIE—WANAMAKER

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated Wednesday evening at the home of Dr. and Mrs. C. W. Scott, 89 Main street, when Miss Thelma A. Wanamaker, daughter of Mrs. Ada Wanamaker of Ballardvale was united in matrimony to James P. Christie, son of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Christie, 14 Summer street.

The Episcopal form of service was used and the ceremony was performed by Rev. Arthur S. Wheelock, pastor of the Free church.

The bride looked very pretty in a gown of white crepe de chine. She wore a tulle veil caught up with orange blossoms and lilies of the valley and carried a shower bouquet of bride's roses and sweetheart roses.

She was attended by her sister, Miss Dorothy P. Wanamaker as bridesmaid whose dress was of pink organdie and who carried a bouquet of pink roses. Arthur R. Lewis was best man.

The house was beautifully decorated with hydrangea blossoms and autumn leaves and as the bridal party entered the parlor, the wedding march from Lohengrin was played by Mrs. C. W. Scott.

Following the ceremony the happy couple received the congratulations of the guests, the ushers being Mrs. Arthur R. Lewis, Mrs. G. Richard Abbott and Miss Sadie Elliott. A wedding lunch was furnished by Caterer Rhodes and served by Mrs. S. Walter Taber of Malden, Miss Maria Fairweather, Mrs. Arthur R. Lewis, Mrs. G. Richard Abbott, Miss Sadie Elliott and Miss Marion Dearborn, all members of the Hawthorne club of which the bride is also a member.

The bride and groom are both well-known young people and they received a large number of beautiful wedding gifts. Mr. Christie is employed in the analysis department of the Merchants National Bank, Boston.

Mr. and Mrs. Christie left amid showers of confetti on their wedding trip which they will spend in the White Mountains. On their return they will live at 21 Salem street and will be at home to their friends after November 1st.

LIVINGSTON—BELISLE

A quiet wedding took place Saturday night at 8.30 o'clock at the West church parsonage when Miss Delia Maud Belisle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Louis A. Belisle, was united in marriage to George Fuller Livingston, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles W. Livingston of Brown road.

The ceremony was performed by Rev. Newman Matthews, pastor of the church. The single ring service was used and the only witness was Everett Belisle, brother of the bride.

As the happy couple left the parsonage they were given a genuine surprise when a number of their friends met them and showered them with rice, confetti and old shoes. They had hoped to have kept the marriage day a secret but the news leaked out.

Mr. and Mrs. Livingston are both well-known young people of the West parish. Mr. Livingston is employed as a machinist for the Boston and Main while the bride has been a stenographer in the office of the Smith and Dove Company.

They will live on Bellevue road in a house which they have recently purchased and their many friends offer their best wishes.

Complicated Marriage Relations

Joseph Arthur Barry of Andover who was arrested several months ago on a statutory charge was sentenced to three months in the house of correction by Judge Frederick Fosdick of Medford at a session of the Superior Criminal Court held Tuesday afternoon.

Some time ago Barry married a woman in Fall River who already had a husband. He claims that he didn't know it at the time and when her first husband turned up, he left her.

On June 5, 1919 he married Delia Lafrance in Peterboro, N. H. After living there for five months they came to Andover where they established a home. It then transpired that the second woman also had a husband living from whom she claimed to have been divorced since he was said to have another wife living in Maine.

On the first husband's complaint the woman was arrested and taken to the Salem jail. She was removed to a hospital but was later taken back to jail where she and her child have been since that time. She had the baby—about two months old—in her arms in court on Tuesday.

The woman plans to live in Andover and will go to work in a mill to support herself and children. Barry, it is said, will marry the woman again, if proper arrangements can be made, after he finishes his three-months' sentence.

Communication

Editor Andover Townsman:

Dear Sir:

Desiring to "feel the pulse" of the good people of your town and at the same time settle a question which has been in my mind for some time, I am going to ask some or any of your readers to say how opposition to the "League of Nations" is to be reconciled to the closing stanza of Col. McGree's "In Flanders' Fields."

It is probably a work of supererogation to remind erudite Andover of that poem, but for fear that it may possibly have temporarily escaped from some minds, I will quote it:

"Take up our quarrel with the foe,
To you from dying hands we throw
The torch. Be yours to hold it high.
If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep though poppies grow
In Flanders' fields."

Yours truly,
S. P. TRACY

Has the Small Car Owner A Right to Good Tires

THIS much is certain—that the small car owners of this country have as high quality standards as any other class of motorists. Whenever you want to see this proven out, you have only to watch how they come to good tires, when they are given an opportunity to get at them.

What some dealers seem to overlook are the reasons which have led most of the small car owners to buy their cars.

In building tires for the small car, the United States Rubber Company exercises as much care, as much thought, as much supervision, as if they were intended to go on the most expensive cars in the country.

Devoting an entire factory to their manufacture. Putting the whole weight of its varied experience behind them.

Never cheapening their quality on the mistaken theory that a man's intelligence can be judged by the length of his car's wheel base.

Good dealers will tell you that they can never get enough U. S. 30x3½-inch Tires.

A hint which the small car owner who is bent on quality will always heed in time.

The local Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold the first social of the season in the vestry at 8 o'clock this evening. A small admission will be charged.

The quarterly meeting of the Andover C. E. Union will be held at the Free Church, Andover, Monday evening at 8 o'clock. Miss McLean, Superintendent of the Loyalty Campaign is to be the speaker of the evening and it is hoped to have a report from our delegate to the Northfield Convention.

Lawn Party

A very successful lawn party was held at the home of Mrs. Lavinia Walker last Friday evening, on Andover street. Over thirty guests were present from Salem, Lawrence and Andover.

Victrola and piano selections were given and a general good time was enjoyed.

a close watch was kept on the truck as it departed from the neighboring city. It was trailed by the officers in an automobile to the house in Flint court and after the baskets loaded with whiskey had been "safely" hidden in the cellar, the officers of the law descended and again removed it, this time to the local police station. From there it was again removed to Lawrence and this morning was presented at the court as "Exhibition A" at a hearing before Judge Mahoney.

At a hearing held in the Lawrence Police Court this morning, McKallagat, the Lawrence druggist from whose place the liquor was originally moved, was fined $100 and McGovern and Kennedy were each fined $50.

Priests Leave Andover

Rev. James A. McDonald who is an Andover boy, and Rev. William J. McCormick, who has been stationed at St. Augustine's church, left today to become pastor and assistant respectively at a new parish in Detroit, Mich.

Rev. Fr. McDonald is the son of James McDonald of Railroad street. He received his simple profession February 3, 1898, and was ordained to the priesthood nineteen years ago at Washington by Cardinal Martini. He was stationed for several years at St. Mary's parish of the Immaculate Conception church; was transferred to Hoosier Falls, N. Y., and later conducted Augustinian missions. He served as chaplain with the rank of captain at Camp MacPherson, Ga. Since his discharge from the service a year ago he has been conducting missions and this summer has been stationed at St. Margaret's church, Old Orchard beach.

Rev. William J. McCormick is a native of Philadelphia and studied in Rome. He was assigned to St. Augustine's church as assistant to succeed the late Fr. Fogarty two years ago and has been at the church since that time with the exception of a brief period he served at the Church of Our Mother of Good Counsel, Philadelphia.

In another column is a letter from Dr. S. P. Tracy of Walkerton, Indiana. He writes, "It is many years since I climbed the steeple of the Old South and deposited a cent in the ball above the vane. Nevertheless I've not forgotten. There are but few in Andover who will recognize my name, but some of those who have passed the three-score line may remember me either by that name or 'Shinny'."

C. H. A. tells us she remembers him well. He is the youngest son of Dr. Tracy who was a practicing physician in Andover and lived in a house situated on the site of that now occupied by George A. Lyon at 78 Main street. Mr. Tracy attended the Pynchard school during the years 1866-1868.

Among the exhibits to be shown at the meeting of the Federated Societies of Natural History to be held at the Pynchard school tomorrow will be found a specimen of Rumex alpinus L. and a photograph of the plant in situ sent by E. M. Kittredge of Woodstock, Vermont.

The New York Botanical Garden determined the plants, and Dr. Pennell wrote that the species has never before been reported from the United States.

The Townsman

Smith and Dove 3—Arlington 1

The Smith and Dove soccer team played its first local game last week and if getting off with a good start means anything, the mill eleven should be well up in the league standing at the finish of the season. While this was the first chance for the local supporters to see the team in action it had already played and won its first game two weeks ago in Lynn.

There was a big crowd at the Lawrence street grounds and the weather was ideal, while a good breeze blew down the field yet it was not strong enough to affect play. James Tuson was referee.

Smith and Dove started with ten men, Billie Deyermund being late in coming on the field. Up to the time he appeared the Arlington forced play and took a lead of one goal, but when Deyermund took his place at center-half, the tables were soon turned and Andover had much the better of the game, first equalizing from a penalty then taking the lead when Nicoll nicely scored from a free kick and before the half ended, making it three when Kilacky beat both backs and the goalie and Skea completed his good work by scoring.

Arlington while playing a hustling game failed to accept their chances, missing two penalties that would have tied the score. The Andover boys were combining better as the game progressed and with a stronger partner for Kilacky will have a good forward line. While Skea and Kilacky showed some fine flashes, it was Jimmie Caldwell who did the better work on the offensive; altogether the team is well balanced and should hold its own with the Champion Abbott Worsteds eleven on the Mill pitch tomorrow.

Smith and Dove: Munroe; Low and Cargill; Coleman, Deyermund and Nicoll; Kilacky, Cairnie, Moffat, Caldwell and Skea.

Arlington: Mill; Swindles; Caldwell and Hulise; Mack, Holt and C. Poole; B. Poole, H. Poole, Morley, Siecer and Barclay.

The score: Smith and Dove 3, Arlington Mill 1. Referee, James Tuson of Lawrence. Linesmen: Gorrie and Moore. Goals: by Skea 2, Nicoll and Siecer.

A Free Hike

Saturday's meeting will be fully reported no doubt, but as it was my first trip to the woods on the two reservations for a long time, I felt a great joy of just listening to the song of our pines and watching the happy faces and eager eyes Mr. Barton always has in tow in his visits to our eskers with a new class in geology. This is the only visit this year to our section and the Indian forts advertised had to be skipped, but we took a trip to the famous old kettle hole of Pomp's Pond instead.

Mr. Barton's first address after lunch was a review of the conditions that left Andover the bequest of the famous Esker District we have called Indian Ridge, and with views he illustrated the forming of streams flowing from under and over the glacial ice, rivers melting in the great retreat northward. Then we all hiked over the Reservation, too well grown in four years since the last gathering, and round the West Ridge back to the lunch camp, where we had a second talk of icebergs and kettle holes. Then Mr. Omar Chase wheeled us to take the trip along the Bird Sanctuary path from Homer Foster's to the observatory above the pond. He called it three quarters of a mile. I did it and got back to the auto to return to the center of things rather dilapidated as to muscle, but full of joy at the lovely things growing from the sands of this old glacial dump. The floor of the reservation is fine in September and the dear little flowers of the Polygonum, a sort of knot grass we all mistook for a heath but which is a true buckwheat, were new to most of us who walk on cement sidewalks.

We have about twenty of this genus in species ending with our naturalized buckwheat "which is grateful to bees," says Wood's old botany.

In the circular distributed to us by Mr. Barton of the schemes of the School of Science and the teachers' courses, I was most interested in the work being done by the Children's Museum at Jamaica Plain, founded in 1913, 60,000 is the average annual attendance with 100 talks. Field trips are taken for study of bird, tree, flower and insect, in Olmstead Park and the Arboretum, and collections are loaned to schools and permanent ones made at Charlestown and East Boston. The Barnard Branch, established in 1919, carries the work at the South End.

The Museum connects with settlement houses, with Girl Scout clubs, etc. The Director, Miss Delia I. Griffin, Jamaica Plain, Mass., will furnish further information. These field meetings are open to all whether members of societies or not. Botany, Geography, Zoology, are all handled. Also the teachers' courses are open at $2.50 each, and George H. Barton, 231 Berkeley St., Boston, Mass., is the address.

Conference of Women in Agriculture

The Massachusetts Agricultural College will open this fall with a new dormitory for women students, the first women's dormitory that has been built on the campus in the fifty-three years since the founding of the college.

The new building, which will accommodate about 100 girls, has come as a result of the unprecedented enrollment of women students at the Agricultural College during and since the war. Up till 1918 no class had graduated more than two girls, but last year there were thirty girls in college and it is expected from the applications for admission that this number will be largely increased this fall.

The completion of the girls' dormitory marks the beginning of a new chapter in co-education at the State College, there being now adequate housing facilities for the girl students, as well as special courses for them in home economics. Two years ago a dean of women and an agricultural adviser for women were appointed, and a course in home economics was added to the curriculum. Up to that time all girls had taken the regular agricultural courses only. They will continue in most classes on the same footing as the men, with the courses in nutrition, clothing efficiency, food preservation and home economics as elective courses.

The purpose of the college is merely to offer women the same educational advantages as the men of the State, at the one State College. The college has always been entirely agricultural, however, and will continue so. The girls will specialize in the practice or science of agriculture as well as in work that is presumed to fit them to be leaders in rural communities.

At the time of the dedication of the new dormitory, a conference is to be held at the college, of women in agriculture, which will be attended by women who are leading figures in agriculture and country life the country over. The theme of the conference is to be "Opportunities for Women in Agriculture" and it will be held the 7th and 8th of October.

The program as announced by the Women's Department of the college devotes one day to discussions of the opportunities for women in agriculture and the second to the dedication exercises of the new women's dormitory at the college.

President Butterfield will open the first day's session. Mrs. Francis King, of Alma, Michigan, president of the Women's National Farm and Garden Association and author of "A Well Considered Garden" will speak on "Vocations for Women in Agriculture" and Miss Nettie C. Burleigh, farmer, of Waterville, Maine, and Miss Margaretta V. Landmann, manager of an experimental seed farm at Prospect Plains, N. J., will tell of their personal experiences in farm operations. A round table discussion will be held under Miss Edna Cutter, of Dracut, who raises high-grade dairy cows, and private conferences on farm practice will be held with farm women by the women speakers.

"The transition in rural life from the family regime to the community regime" will be the subject of an address by C. J. Galpin, economist of the United States Department of Agriculture in charge of rural life studies.

Representatives from other New England colleges attended by women will bring greetings to the Massachusetts Agricultural College women at the dedication of the women's building October 8th, and Miss Sarah Louise Arnold, dean emerita of Simmons College, will make the dedication address. President Butterfield will receive the keys of the building from C. A. Gleason, president of the Board of Trustees.
